Final Project

品德学堂

First of all, this picture book for children's stories that I created for children's learning is a story book for moral education. In the story book, children can learn good moral values. In addition, when children read picture story books, they not only learn moral values, but children can also learn some Chinese words from picture story books. Let children learn two skills in the story book, it can be said to kill two birds with one stone. Moreover, moral values adopt the moral culture of Chinese history. For example: being helpful, polite, automatic and spontaneous, etc. to design a story book. Therefore, children can gain more interest in reading story books. The following is the concept of design story book. Why do I want to design this children's story book. This is because when children in the cash age meet their elders, they will not greet the elders, and walk away as if they have not seen them. Not only that, when a child sees someone in need of help, the child pretends not to see. Therefore, we will adopt the viewpoint of moral education to create a story book of moral education.

Syonopsis

One beautiful morning, the protagonist got up with a very excited mood. Because today is the protagonist's first time to go to the bazaar, so he is ready to go out to the bazaar with his mother immediately. On the way to the market, I met someone I knew greeted the protagonist and mother, and the protagonist and mother responded kindly to say hello. This is a kind of courtesy. Walking, passing by the good friend's house, the good friend and the protagonist say that he also wants to go to the market together. Then, the protagonist, mother and good friends went to the market together.

On the way to the market, you need to pass through a large forest, and then you have to take a boat to reach it. Upon arriving at the lively bazaar, the protagonists walked in the direction of the crowds of people in the bazaar. As they walked, suddenly the protagonists saw a few people vandalizing other people's stores, then the police uncle came to stop the bad guys, and the protagonists also went to help the owner clean up some damaged things. The owner was very grateful for their help to clean up, and gave the protagonists some items to express their gratitude. After that, the protagonists continued to move forward. Suddenly a few oranges rolled down. They saw that the vendor who was pushing the fruit cart dropped the oranges. The protagonists immediately helped pick up the oranges, and the vendor also thanked the protagonists. . Then, when the protagonist saw someone jump in the queue while queuing to purchase, the protagonists discouraged the person who jumped the queue and told that it was wrong to jump in the queue.

Towards the evening, the protagonists could not find a means of transport to go home after they had bought something. Suddenly, an enthusiastic person wanted to take them home. When they arrived at the entrance of the village, the protagonists got out of the car and thanked the enthusiastic people who drove them home. Finally, after sending the protagonist's good friend home, the protagonist and his mother happily go home together, and the story ends.
